CHANGE OF MILITARY GOVERNORS.—We anounced yesterday that General W. T. Sherman has turned over the command of the Memphis Department to Major General S. A. Hurlbut. The Memphis Bulletin says:

IMPORTANT DIPLOMATIC CORRESPONDENCE-The French Circular on Mediation-Replies Earl Russell and Prinze Gortschakoff.-We ubjoin, in full, the correspondence between France, England, and Russia on mediation in American affairs, of which the telegraph gave only an imperfect abstract:

M. DROUYN DE L'HUYS' DESPATCH. Paris, October 30. Europe watches with painful interest the truggle which has been raging more than a rear upon the American continent. The hosyear upon the American continent. The hos-tilities have provoked sacrifices and efforts certainly of a nature to inspire the highest idea of the perseverance and energy of the two populations. But this spectacle, which does o much honor to their courage, is only given t the price of numberless calamities and a rodigious effusion of blood.

To these results of civil war, which, from the very first, assumed vast proportions, there is still to be added the apprehension of servile war, which would be the culminating point of many irreparable disasters. The suffering of a nation toward which we have always pro-fessed a sincere friendship would have sufficed to excite the sincere solicitude of the Emperor, ven had we ourselves not suffered by ounter blow of these events. Under the influence of intimate relation, which extensive intercourse has multiplied between the various regions of the globe, Europe itself has suffered from the consequences of the crisis which has dried up one of the most fruitful sources of public wealth, and which has become, for the great centres of labor, a as occome, for the great centres of labor, a cause of most sad trials.

As you are aware, when the conflict commenced we held it our duty to observe the most strict neutrality, in concert with other maritime powers, and the Washington Cabinet has repeatedly acknowledged the honor able manner with which we have ad hered to that line of conduct. The sentiment dictated to us have undergone no change bu of a benevolent character.

That neutrality, instead of imposing upon the Powers the attitude which might resemble indifference, ought rather to make them of service to the two parties by helping them out of a position which seems to have no issue. From the commencement of the war an arme force was set on foot by the belligerents which force was set on foot by the belligerents which, since then, has almost constantly been kept up. After so much bloodshed they are now, in that respect, nearly in the same position. Nothing authorizes the presumption that more decisive military operations will shortly occur, according to the last news received in Europe. The two armies, on the contrary, were in a condition that would not allow either party to hope withing a brief delay for either party to hope within a brief delay for any decided advantage to turn the balance and accelerate the conclusion of peace.

All these circumstances, taken togethe point to the opportunity of an armistice, point to the opportunity of an armistice, to which, moreover, under the present circumstances, no strategical objection can be made. The favorable dispositions toward which are beginning to manifest themselves in the North as well as the South might, on the other hand, second steps that might be made to recommend the idea of truce.

The Emperor has, therefore, thought that the occasion has presented itself of offering to the belligerents the support of the maritime Powers, and his Majesty has charged me to make the proposition of his Government to her Britannic Majesty, as well as to the Court of Russia. The three Cabinets would exert their influence at Washington, as well as with the Confederates, to obtain an armistice for the Confederates, to obtain an armistice for six months, during which every act of war, direct or indirect, should provisionally cease, on sea as well as on land, and it might be, if ecessary, ulteriorally prolonged.

The overtures, I need not say, sir, would not mply on our part any judgment on the origin or issue of the struggle, nor any pressure upon the negotiations which might, it is to be hoped, ensue in favor of an armistice. Our task would consist solely in smoothing down obsta-cles, and in interfering only in measures deermined upon by two parties. We should not, in fact, believe ourselve called upon to decide, but to prepare the solution of difficulties which hitherto have opposed reconciliation between the belligerent parties. Would not, moreover, an agreement between the three Courts respond sufficiently to their tentions? Would it not give to their st he character of evident impartiality? Actin n concert, they would combine the condition best suited to inspire confidence. The Government of the Emperor, by the constant tradition of French policy toward the United States—England, by the commu-nity of race—Prussia, by the marks of friend-ship she has never ceased to show to the Wash-ington Cabinet. Should the event not justify the hope of the three powers, and should the order of the struggle overrule the wisdom of their councils, this attempt would not be less favorable for them.

They would have fulfilled a duty of humanneutrals, at the same time that it describes to them a strict impartiality, and they could nev-er make a nobler use of their influence than promises such great interests throughout the

I request you, sir, in the name of his Majesty, to submit these considerations to Lord Russell or to Prince Gortschakoff, begging him to state the views of the Government of her Britannic Majesty or the Court of Russia. DROUYN DE L'HUYS.

EARL RUSSELL'S REPLY. FOREIGN OFFICE, Nov. 14. The following despatch was addressed by Earl Russell to Earl Cowley, her Majesty's Ambassador at Paris:

FOREIGN OFFICE, Nov. 13, 1862. My Lord-The Count de Flahault came to the Foreign Office, by appointment, on Mon-day, 10th inst., and read to me a despatch from Drouyn de L'Huys, relating to the civil war in North America.

In this despatch the Minister for Foreign Affairs states that the Emperor has followed with painful interest the struggle which had now been going on for more than a year on the American continent. He does justice to the energy and perseverance which have been displayed by both sides, but he observes that these proofs of their courage have been given climax of so many irreparable misfortunes.

If these calamities affected America only these suffering of a friendly nation would be enough to excite the anxiety and sympathy of the Emperor; but Europe also has suffered in one of the principal branches of her industry, and her artisans have been subjected to most cruel trials. France and the maritim which they are animated, far from imposing on them anything like indifference, seems, on the contrary, to require that they should assist the two belligerent parties in an endeavor to escape from a position which appears to have no issue. The forces of the two sides have hitherto fought with balanced success, and the latest accounts do not show any prospect of a speedy termination of the war.

These circumstances, taken together, would These circumstances, taken together, would seem to favor the adoption of measures which might bring about a truce. The Emperor of the French, therefore, is of the opinion that there is now an opportunity of offering to the belligerents the good offices of the maritime powers. He therefore proposes to Her Majesty, as well as to the Emperor of Russia, that the three Courts should endeavor, both at Washington and in communication with the Conngton and in communication with the Con-ederate States, to bring about a suspension of hostilities for six months, during which every act of hostility, direct or indirect, should cease at sea as well as on land. This armistice might, if necessary, be renewed for a further

This proposal, Drouyn de L'Huys proceeds to say, would not imply on the part of the three Powers any judgment on the origin of the war, or any pressure on the negotiations for peace, which it is hoped would take place during the armistice. The three Powers would only interfere to smooth the obstacles, and only within the limits which the two inthat even in the event of a failure of immediate success, these overtures might be useful in leading the minds of men now heated by sion to consider the advantages of concil

ntentions of the Emperor.

They are also of the opinion that if the steps broposed were to be taken, the concurrence of Russia would be extremely desirable. Her Majesty's government have, however, not been informed, up to the present time, that the Russian government have agreed to co-operate with England and France on this occasion, although that government may support the endeavors of England and France to obtain endeavors of England and France to obtain the end proposed.

But is the end proposed attainable at the present moment by the course suggested by the government of France? Such is the quesion which has been anxiously and carefull xamined by Her Majesty's government.

After weighing all the information which as been received from America, her Majesty's overnment are led to the conclusion that Government are led to the conclusion that there is no ground at the present moment to hope that the Federal Government would accept the proposal suggested, and a refusal from Washington at the present time would prevent any speedy renewal of the offer.

Her Majesty's Government think therefore, that it would be better to watch carefully the progress of opinion in America, and if, as there appears reason to hope it may be found.

here appears reason to hope, it may be four to have undergone, or may undergo hereafte y counsel with a greater prospect than novexists of its being accepted by the two con ending parties.

Her Majesty's Government will communi eate to that of France any intelligence they may receive from Washington or Richmond hay receive from Washington of hearing upon this important subject.

Your Excellency may read this despatch to M. Drouyn de L'Huys, and give him a copy RUSSELL.

PRINCE GORTSCHAKOFF'S REPLY. St. Petersburg, Nov. 15. The Journal of St. Petersburg contains the reply of Prince Gortschakoff to the note of Drouyn de D'Huys, which is in substance

After recalling the constant efforts of Rus ia in favor of conciliation, Prince Gortscha sa in favor of conciliation, Prince Gortscha koff says that it is requisite above all thing to avoid the appearance of any pressure what ever capable of chilling public opinion in America, or of exercising the susceptibility of that nation. We believe that a combined measure of the three great powers, however conciliatory, if presented in an official or officious character, would be the cause of arriving at a result opposed to pacification. If ficious character, would be the cause of arriving at a result opposed to pacification. If, however, France should persist in her intention of mediation, and England should acquiesce in her course, instructions shall be sent to Baron Stoeckl, at Washington, to lend to both his colleagues there (the French and English Ministers), if not official aid, at least moral support upport.

[Correspondence of the Louisville Journal. COL. HAGGARD'S REGIMENT, THE FIFTH KENTUCKY CAVALRY.

Nashville, Nov. 20, 1862.

There are periods when, perhaps, the necessary tardiness of the Government, in its payment of troops falls heavily on particular regiments. A case of this kind is the 5th Kentucky cavalry. It was mustered into the service early in the autumn of 1861, and received no pay from the Government until June, 1862. This payment met the earnings to April 30th, inclusive. Since that time no payment has been made to the regiment. Seven months' pay is now almost due to the brave soldiers of this command. It may have been unavoidable, but does sufficient cause exist to delay payment longer? A recent order provides a payment longer? A recent order provides a paymaster for each brigade, hence there is no scarcity of the proper officers.

These soldiers, like others, have families at

These soldiers, like others, have families at home dependent more or less upon them for maintenance. The winter approaches, and the necessity for means increases. In addition to this denial of pay the regiment is in greatneed of clothing. The 5th Kentucky cavalry has been chiefly used for scouting purposes in Middle Tennessee and Kentucky. Its restriction now is reconstitution for the control of the control tis position now is peculiarly unfortunate.

Col. Haggard has been confined to his room in Nashville for the past three months with inflammatory rheumatism. He is at present better, and rapidly convalescing; Lieut. Col. Scott has been detached since June, Major Owsley was chosen. Commonwealth's Attor. fered the alternative of resigning. This he a cepted, and consequently is not with the regiment.

The unavoidable absence of the field officers may have had a tendency to discourage the soldiers. But there were other causes. Their ranks were thinned by the casualties of war. to disease during the weary months Nashville was isolated, but also to bear the mental agony of being deprived of the proud privilege of assisting to drive a ruthless invader from the soil of his native State. Still more must this brave Kentuckian desire to prevent his own and adjacent counties from the repetition of a similar occurrence. He must learn with profound werent that the Convergence with the these overtures would nor be entirely useless, for they might encourage public opinion to views of conciliation, and thus hasten the moment when the return of peace might become possible. Cumberland and its sister counties; that the motorious Bowles is laying waste the country with a banditti; that the property of his friends and neighbors is destroyed, and their lives placed in jeopardy. The officers and soldiers of the 5th Kentucky Cavalry have a special claim upon the authorities to be assigned the task of repelling these desperate men from their own firesides. Let it be done. Three dvantages of an important character woul desult from it. There would be afforded a pportunity by which the decimated ranks of the regiment could be recruited, to protect the to Kentuckians that the government means to encourage loyalty, and trample treason under foot. The duty of keeping Kentucky free from guerillas belongs to the citizens of that State—and in no safer hands could the that State—and in no safer hands could the improtected portion of the border counties be entrusted than in the 5th Kentucky savalry. No men can be deaf to petitions for relief from the loved ones they have left benind. Why not, then, select these troops at once to proceed to that region? Pay them their hard-earned wages, clothe them adequate to winter's blasts, and allow them to swell their numbers while at the same time they protect their homes from the tread of thostile feet. We have been in no battles, nor even ski We have been in no battles, nor even skirmishes, and, of course, have no blood and thunder stories to tell. Our division (Smith's) in the pursuit of Bragg beyond Wildcat was in the advance, and we did hope for awhile we would get to smell gunpowder, but we were doomed to be mistaken. The reason why was satisfactorily explained by a straggling prisoner we took. Says he: "Your pursuit of Bragg reminds me of the California bear hunter. About sunset he came to a ranche, and wished to stay all night; the proprietor told him he had no bread or bed, but he was welcome to the shelter of his roof. The prietor told him he had no bread or bed, but he was welcome to the shelter of his roof. The offer was accepted, and in course of conversa-tion the hunter remarked that he had been trailing a bear for three days. "Then why," says the other, 'do you stop?" 'Because,' he replied, 'the trail was getting too d—d hot."" Well, we didu't catch Bragg, and had to come back with the fisherman's luck. At Mount Vernan we took the Somerst road and from ernon we took the Somerset road, and fro here to Columbia passed through the App Jack region, and as a consequence our lin became extended along the road for upwards eventy miles. Our brigade (the 19th) was le allowed to remain and protect that portion f the State, for Glasgow is a pleasant place and there are many Union citizens there, no vithstanding its rebel reputation; but soon he order came for us to go to Gallatin. From Jallatin we went to Silver Springs, and from there to this place, where rumor says we are to remain for some time, which I hope is true or this army has been marched nearly to leath in the last six months, and has never thad a good rest. Brig. Gen. Negley:

Dear Sir: My son — — will ask for a pass to go into Kentucky to visit his wounded brother, a member of the 1st Tennessee Infantry, C. S. A. Do not let him go, for he is an uncompromising secessionist, and should feel that our Government has power to use the rod as well as to protect her loyal citizens. When my three boys joined this fearful and uncalled for rebellion, I begged them on my knees to spare me such anguish, or expect God's ever sure retribution. They heeded not my prayers or tears, and, with other members of my family, have almost severed every tie that makes life dear. God is just. My efdest son sleeps on the field of Antietam, another was severely wounded on Chaplin Hills, and the one who will apply to you for a pass has not visited my house for nine months, because I dare stand ouse for nine months, because I dare stand rm and unmoved when the mad torrent of se-ession swept all before it and severed the dearest ties that bind man to his fellow man, writ-ng "aceldema" on the fairest heritage of an, and spreading ruin and desolation broad ast everywhere.

Let my boys feel and taste the wormwood nd gall which they have offered to others. It syour duty to God and your country, and the Kentuckians who are in Washington say that the State is undergoing a revolution on the emancipation question, and that before long it will take a position by the side of Mis souri in favor of compensated emancipation.

We find the substance of that paragraph ir several Eastern papers. 'Tis all a fraud. I any Kentuckians in Washington say that this State is undergoing a revolution on the emancipation question, they are hunters after office or hunters after contracts, poor and cringing sycophants, who hope to compass their ends by telling the President whatever they think he would like to hear. Louisville Journal.

We made this reply to the Hartford paragraph two or three weeks ago. In doing so we stated a fact that should be known. There have been and are in Washington some Ken-State is undergoing a revolution on the emancipation question, but all such Kentuckians are there simply as seekers after appointments contracts, and jobs, and their whole employ ment is to fawn upon the powers that be, expecting thus to accomplish their selfish purposes. They have not the courage to tell the of ficers of Government any truth that they think would be unpalatable, and they dare not omit to fabricate whatever falsehoods they suppose would be palatable. They are practising a mean and contemptible system of deception reckless of the public mischief they may do thereby, so they succeed in the attainment of their own personal ends.

No person of common sense, who has been recently in this State, believes or can for one moment believe that our people are becoming econciled to the emancipation policy. Every body knows that they are not; everybody knows that the policy in question is odious to the last degree. It seems that the Kentucky spoils-hunters at the seat of the Federal Gov ernment, as a last desperate means of recom mending themselves to official favor, have held a sort of meeting or caucus and voted to have a couple of emancipation papers established in this State. One of the leaders in this busi ness is the Hon. Mr. Casey, of the First Congressional District, who, during the last session of Congress, acted upon all occasions with the most ultra Republicans, thereby offending and disgusting his constituents to such a de gree that he found it convenient, under various pretexts, to pass the recess elsewhere. If we believe he boasts of having done, his stay ress which nineteen out of every twenty who voted for him believe him to have foully dis-

Since writing the preceding paragraphs, we have received a copy of the Cincinnati Commercial containing a Washington letter of the 25th ult., the writer of which says that the persons who have figured in this business were a delegation of unconditional Unionists from Kentucky." Repeatedly he speaks of them as "a delegation," and he mentions "Congressman Casey, Silas F. Miller, and others," as members of it. Now if "Congressmen Casey, Silas F. Miller, and others" went to Washington as "a delegation," let us know who delegation ted them. We have not heard of any emancipation meeting in this city or anywhere else to delegate "Congressmen Casey, Silas F. Miller, and others", to Washington in the interests such a meeting, we will thank him to enlighten us upon the subject. A good many besides rselves would like to be enlightened. As for emancipation newspapers, every man, who has sense enough to keep his fingers out of the blaze of a candle, knows that they are not wanted instant think of establishing an abolition organ in this State with the least expectation of its being supported to any considerable extent by the patronage of the people. Neither the "delegation" nor any of their friends will start such a paper with their own money. They have no thought of inaugurating the enterprise except with the funds of the Government, and with the assurance o expectation of its being kept up by the funds of the Government. An emancipation paper in Kentucky, not sustained by Government patronage, could not live a month, and, if it should be sustained by the Government, that one fact, notorious as it necessarily would be, would tend to render the Government and its policy exceedingly odious.

The President of the United States is an hon est and good man. Imposed on as he may be and as all other Presidents have been by sycophantic lucre-hunters, he is at heart sincerely devoted to what he deems the good of the country. As a statesman, he should know, and we believe and trust does know, that, if he is to be sustained at all, he must be sustained, not by newspaper organs upheld by the money of the American people without the American people's consent or knowledge, but by a press and a people ever ready to condemn what is wrong, prompt and glad to applaud what is right, and most earnestly desirous that his administration, by pursuing a wise and just course, may crown itself with success and

The Editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer publishes a document from a good many citizens of Brown county, O., withdrawing from the support of his paper because they regarded it as sympathizing with the rebels. We hope he will show to the satisfaction of everybody that those citizens were not correct i their estimate of its character.

The trial of Andrew J. Houston, under adictment for treason in the U.S. Court at Indianapolis last week, illustrates a fact worthy of public attention. We are assured that there was no rational doubt of Houston's guilt. He was clearly proved to have accompanied a party of rebel guerillas last summer to Newburg, Ind., the place of his residence, and aided in robbing a Government hospital there. Still he could not be convicted, four of the jurymen obstinately refusing to agree to a verdict against him. We do not know who those four urors were, but undoubtedly they would have efused to vote for the conviction of a rebel in any state of case whatever. In Kentucky, as we all know, the proportion of traitors is greater beyond comparison than in Indiana. Here an attempt to have a traitor brought to justice by court and jury is almos ertain to prove a failure. A traitor might make proclamation of his treason in handbills or in public speeches in our Court-hous yard, he might boast of having fought in the ebel armies or acted as their spy and given them important information, he migh penly recruit for them to the music fife and drum in our streets, he might boldly mmit treason in every form and manner in which that greatest of crimes can be commit ted, and yet, as everybody knows, there would not, if he were indicted and brought before jury, be even a strong probability of his con iction. One or two or four or half a dozen o the twelve jurors would be likely, for dear reason's sake, to oppose to the end a verdict ere from the ordinary operations of our law s they would be in China or in Van Die nan's Land. It is this fact and only this that has cause the Government to endeavor to sustain the cause of the Union in Kentucky against its enemies by processes more summary than jur rials. These summary processes and the fulle icense to raging treason are the only alterna ives. The question as to the proper choi between them is one of great and solem mport. In our view, the most that can just! tuckians, so called, representing that this be demanded or expected of the Federal authorities in regard to Kentucky is that they exercise the power of arrest and imprisor ment with the greatest possible care, examin ing testimony with the closest scrutiny an making sure that they do no injustice. We do not say that it is better that ten traite should escape than that one loyal man shou be arrested wrongfully, for ten traitors, arge, might do an amount of evil, in compa son with which the sufferings of one inne cent man in prison would be almost a othing, yet assuredly the utmost cautio against the infliction of wrong should be ob erved in all cases. The great number of in tances in which men have been seized and thrown into confinement as guilty, and after wards discharged as innocent, tend strongly to create an impression that due care has no always been exercised. For the country sake, let there be a reform in the matter if one s needed. Energetic patriotism may be so directed as to injure the cause it loves.

arge military expedition under Gen. Banks o Texas. Beyond all doubt the taking and holding of Texas by our troops will go very far in crippling the rebellion, but it is not the work that should be first done. What we want now, what we want first of all, is the taking of Richmond, the capital of the rebel Confederacy. We must strike directly and vigorously at the living and throbbing heart of the rebellion instead of pricking it, however effectively, in its arms and legs. We must no he ventured to return to his district at all, as longer keep up our efforts to destroy the foul fiend piece-meal. If the United States has an was very "short," and, we apprehend, not army ready or nearly ready to embark for in the achievment of the mighty work he ha before him, and then start for the far South if there shall still be vitality enough in the rebellion to require that a vigorous prosecution of the war shall be continue In our opinion, the fall of Richmond would be the fall of the rebel cause, and therefore we would have the whole force, that can safely be spared from other points, concentrated at once for that great object. The capture of Richmond, protected by the strongest fortifications upon the continent and perhaps an army of two hundred thousand veterans, must, be yond all'question, be a tremendous undertak ing, but other undertakings should be subor dinated to it, and it should be accomplished even if an army of half a million of men be necessary for the purpose. We have nominally almost a million of men in arms, and of emancipation. If anybody has heard of surely we can gather half of the number for the capture of Richmond. The enterprise i tremendous, but so will its results be when it shall be successful.

We greatly doubt whether at this momen Gen. Burnside has at command as great a force as Gen. Lee. If, as is extensively believed, in Kentucky. There is no public sentiment Lee has been reinforced by a large portion of or fraction of public sentiment that calls for Bragg's army, very probably he outnumbers them. No man or set of men would for one Burnside forty or fifty thousand men, and or course, protected as he is by the most formida ble lines of fortifications, he can hardly be attacked successfully except by greatly superior numbers. But we have the greatly superior numbers, and all that are needed should be concentrated immediately. Vastly outnumbering the rebels as we do, it would be an act of inconceivable madness on our part to risk such mighty consequences as the issue of a terrible battle for the possession of Richmond would involve without availing our selves of our whole superiority to make sure of victory. We must not meet the enemy in his strongest hold in a conflict of awful moment without a concentration of all the strength that our Government can control. If reinpreements are needed, let them be forthoming. If it is necessary for different armies o advance simultaneously upon Richmond on different sides, let different armies be marshalled, all large enough to march with the resistlessness of the march of destiny. But, although immense preparations may be required, immense celerity is no less required.

If we crush the rebellion without afflictions inconceivable, we have to crush i soon-crush it in a very few months. We cannot possibly be so blind as not to see, from late startling indications, that the world will not wait for us. The European nations are suffering fearfully from the continuance of our war, and we can easily see now, that, if we do not quickly close it up by blows as crushing as the descent of an Alpine avalanche. they will attempt to close it up for us, and, by the attempt, inflict upon us woes unnumbered and unutterable. A PRECEDENT .- During the Crimean was the British Government complained because Russian vessels were building in American ports. Our Government, through its officia representative, replied, that Americans being eutrals, had a right to sell to the belligerent powers articles contraband of war, or to take munitions of war upon board their private ships for transportation, but admitted that mond." The people of that fine old aristo- they had no right "to fit out within the limits horses to ride and no shoes to go on foot with. ties against any State with which the United States are at peace, or to increase the force of any foreign armed vessel intended for such hostilities against a friendly State." READING FO A HOSPITALS.—We hope the ap peal of the, Rev. J. C. Hoblit, Chaplin of the hty-afth Ohio, will be successful in induc ing Jur citizens to send all such books, magazanes, and pamphlets as they can spare to the designated depositories, where they will be fixed up and forwarded to Nashville for the recreation of the inmates of the hospitals in that city. There is hardly a family which cannot contribute in some way to aid the efforts of the Chaplain, and the mental food thus distributed will do almost as much good to the convalescing soldiers as the delicacies we have been in the habit of providing for

TRAIN DETAINED .- The Nashville train, due here at six o'clock last evening, was detained until a late hour last night, owing to an acci dent which occurred on the road on Sunday The lock at the Sandersville switch had been broken and the switch disarranged, by which malicious act three cars were thrown from the track to the injury of the cars. No one on the train was hurt. Notwithstanding the many petty and serious annoyances to which Super intendent Marshall is from time to time subjected in the management of this great thoroughfare, the success with which he meets is almost incredible.

It was announced a few days ago authorities for the arrest of John B. Norman, Esq., the able Editor of the New Albany Ledger, for the charge of publishing information calculated to give aid to the enemy. Hearing the rumor, he at once reported himself to Gen. Wright for orders. Now, we are pleased to dearn that Mr. Norman has returned home and resumed his editorial duties; from which we infer that he has been deemed not guilty of the charge-but we trust that Gen. Wright admonished him not to do so any more.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—Through the carelessness of a clerk in the employ of the Rev. A H. Redford, Mr. Redford's book-store, on Third street, between Main and Market, was fired about nine o'clock last evening. The fire was wery formidable when discovered, and would have proved even more disastrous had it not been for the efforts of our admirably organized fire department. Nearly all of Mr. Redford's stock was either destroyed by fire or so damaged by water as to render it worthless. and Mr. Kendrick's stock of jewelry, in the adjoining building, was also much injured.

THEATRE .- As "Fanchon, the Cricket" drew another crowded audience last night, despite the threatening aspect of the weather, we do not see the policy of withdrawing it, though we suppose Miss Maggie Mitchell is anxious to offer a variety to her friends. This evening therefore, she appears in the comedy of "The Wild Irish Girl," singing "The Groves of Blaney," and dancing a jig, and also in the protean farce of "The Four Sisters." She has also a new five-act play, called "Hermance, or the Romance of a Life," in rehearsal.

GEN. ROUSSEAU .- Alluding to Maj. Gen. L H. Rousseau, the hero of Chaplain Hills, a correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writing from Tyree Springs, says: "A braver nor a more beloved General never commanded division of any army. A strict disciplina everything moves in the division with the precision of clock-work, and, at the same time, a constant guardian of the comfort and health of his command, he has attached his men to him to a degree that I have, no where else seen in my experience in the army."

THE CONDEMNED INDIANS OF MINNESOTA Commissioner Dale has written a letter to the Secretary of the Interior for the President, on the subject of the proposed execution of the condemned Indians in Minnesota, protesting against it, and taking the general ground that the instigators of the outbreak should be hung. but the mere followers, no matter how barbar. ous their deeds, should be pardoned, and urging that this course will have a much more beneficial effect on the Indians than a whole sale hanging.

The President then gives a summary from the Secretary of the Treasury's report. He refers to the reports of the Secretaries of the Navy and War Departments, and says that, though lengthy, they are only brief abstracts. He says there is a decided improvement in the financial condition of the Post-office Department compared with the preceding years. The Secretary of the Interior reacts that the public lands have ceased to be a cort shat fact is influencing him. Matters are growing decidedly interesting, and but a short time will elapse before you will have stirring news.

To-morrow the Philadelphia Inquirer will contain a Washington despatch, professing to have reliable information direct from Richmond. The substance of its information, which is probably of average reliability, or more, is as follows:

"The people of Richmond have been having another panic for the last two weeks. The removal of McClellan and the rapid movement orts that the public lands have ceased to be a moval of McClellan and the rapid movemen of Burnside were the first causes. At the troubles, he says: I submit for your special consideration whether our Indian system shall not be remodelled.

He suggests the earliest completion of the recipies on the projects for enlarging the great causes. At the in Richmond, on his way to North Carolina, the campaign in Virginia being supposed to be over for the winter. A part of his corps were with him. They were put into the works around Richmond at once, while he took the cars for the winter. Richmond at once, while he took the cars for Fredericksburg, to hold the Rappahannock lin if possible, and if not, to retard our movemen ress on the projects for enlarging the great ca-als of New York, Illinois, and Michigan. The President refers to his compensated till Lee should come up. There are now from twenty to twenty-five thousand in the work nancipation proclamation of Sept. 22d, and ays, that portion of the earth occupied by the seople of the United States is well adapted to he home of one national family, but for two son's forces. Jackson has been recalled, will be seen to some states of the second states of the secon son's forces. Jackson has been recalled, with Hill and Stuart, from the Valley, to form the left flank of Lee's army. Jackson was on sinted out the total inadequacy of disunion a remedy for differences between the people f the two sections. I did so in language which I cannot improve. Physically speaking ve cannot separate; we cannot remove our espective sections from each other, nor build in impassible wall between them. He then ordered Lee to throw his whole army on Rappahannock, and dispute every foot of grouthence to the rebel capital. They have plen marks at length on the difficulty of making by national boundary line. The President then suggests amendments to the Constitution, Congress concurring, to be proposed to the legislatures or conventions of the several States, which, if ratified by three-fourths of said legislatures, to be valid as parts of said Constitution. leges of public worship in some of the churches, at least, would be allowed once more to the citizenship of this place.

Dr. McDermot, who has been the Post Surgeon at this position having been called to geon at this point, having been called to another field of labor, has resigned his position another held of labor, has resigned his position here, and Dr. Brady, of Maxville, Ky., has been appointed his successor. The appointment is a good one and such as was generally desired. The Dr. stands high in his profession, and is remarkable for his urbanity of

During the present week, there will have been forwarded from this place to Louisville between two and three hundred persons, composed of convalescents from the hospitals, straggling soldiers, and paroled rebel prisoners. These latter are generally under guard to Headquarters, but it has so happened, or been appointed, that they shall not leave the depot without words of comfort for their misdepot without words of comfort for their misfortunes, and a word of encouragement to be faithful in the cause of rebellion. This work is performed by rebel women, who depend upon their sex as protection, whilst they outrage the proprieties of life in the most public places by talking sedition, and encouraging treason. This they have been permitted to do in the presence of large crowds, whilst these prisoners have been in the hands of officers of the Federal army. One of this class received, we trust, her quietus in regard to this matter. A Captain of our regiment who had in charge a large number of rebels, to be taken to Louisville, was under the necessity of putting a stop to this sort of thing, and I taken to Louisville, was under the necessity of putting a stop to this sort of thing, and I rather suspect we have witnessed the last of it.

This Captain, although he is the very soul of thing and graphers, and graphers and graphers and graphers. This Captain, although he is the very soul of chivalry and gallantry, and would at any time, at any hazard, throw the shield of his protection around any lady to defend her from injury or wrong, yet as an officer in the Federal army he could not by his silence consent through the agency of a woman to become particeps erimins to rebellion and sedition. Hearing one of the zealous rebel sisters attempting to encourage the brethren, he with much deference suggested to the fair one that she was out of her place, and taking her very gently by the arm, he waited upon her until she passed through the crowd, and got outside the door of the depot. Very polite and gallant is our Captain, and he is just as brave as he is polite. It does appear that our rebel women can only learn wisdom from what they shall be only learn wisdom from what they shall be called to suffer. It was so with their mother Eve. She led off in the first rebellion, and came very near landing us all in the hottest corner of the Southern Confederacy, but she repented of it, and ever since then the opini repented of it, and ever since then the opinion has prevailed that she and her fair daughters in their succession have been trying to repair the evils of the first rebellion. Having gotten us out of Paradise, it has been the general belief that they are doing their very best to get us back again. But if they succeed in accomplishing their purpose, they must quit turning up their pretty noses, and curling their sweet lips every time they see a blue coat and brass buttons. Such conduct is not winning, ladies—upon my word it is not.

Our regiment enjoys, at this time, a fine degree of health, and is in a good state of discipline. It reports as present, and fit for duty. I presume, a larger number than any other Kentucky regiment, which has been as long a time in the service. Our boys during the last week have been as busy as beavers in fixing up their wanter. They have except to the have been as busy as beavers in fixing up their winter quarters. They have excavated the earth where their tents are pitched, about one foot below the surface, and they have thrown up embankments of nearly two feet in height. Upon the top of these embankments they pitch their tents, in middle of which they place a stove, and with plenty of wood, feel that they can defy the winter's frosts, rain, or extremist cold.

Hartford, on the sad occasion referred to, has created some excitement there.

The story goes so far as to state that Judge Colt, a brother, was so suddenly brought into contact with the resurrected suicide that he ground, injuring himself severely. All this may be the merest rumor, but, as one of those who have always doubted Colt's suicide, the story serves to feed my credulity in the opposite direction.

CAMP LANE, TYREE SPRINGS, TENN.,

You having solicited correspondence from the army, the thought occurred to me that some of our friends in Louisville would like thear from the 17th brigade and the country's favorite division—Gen. Rousseau's. Being no correspondent, but a plain unlettered man, cannot electrify you with any aerial flight through the fields of fancy, or carry you to revel in the delightful regions of poesy, leaving that to my favorite and gifted correspondent "Dora," whose letters I much delight to With all their country's honors blest."

Almost daily we see from three to five boxes the locality of our brigade, that it is "lying

And here I cannot forbear to offer the slight tribute to their noble dead, to say

Col. C. Pope is hard to find, even where the noblest of the noble abound, in the ranks of our Federal army, who are fighting for a reconstruction of this noble Union as it was. (I near that the three vacancies in that regim are filled by the commissioning of thre are filled by the commissioning of three Captains, respectively, Forman, Snider, and Kalfus.) Here, allow me to state that an overwhelming majority of this army is fighting upon the aforementioned principle; did I not believe it I would leave it to-morrow. If we are to have a military despotism, it matters not "under which king," old Abe or old Jeff. We of course find many ultra extremists and our ranks, like the "targe in the wheet" and our ranks, like the "tares in the wheat y their readiness to do the work of his satan majesty, their Father. These have entere the army for plunder alone, and would ava one as quick as the other. But should we collemn the whole? By no means.
